

GEORGETOWN STABLES

Photography: Felix Mooneeram - Styling: Chloe McCarthy, Room on Fire.

Set against a landscape of rolling paddocks and endless sky, Georgetown Stables stands as a testament to the deep connection between horse and rider. More than a structure, it is a carefully crafted retreat—a place where tradition and design merge seamlessly, creating a sanctuary that honors both the rhythm of Western Pleasure riding and the warmth of home.

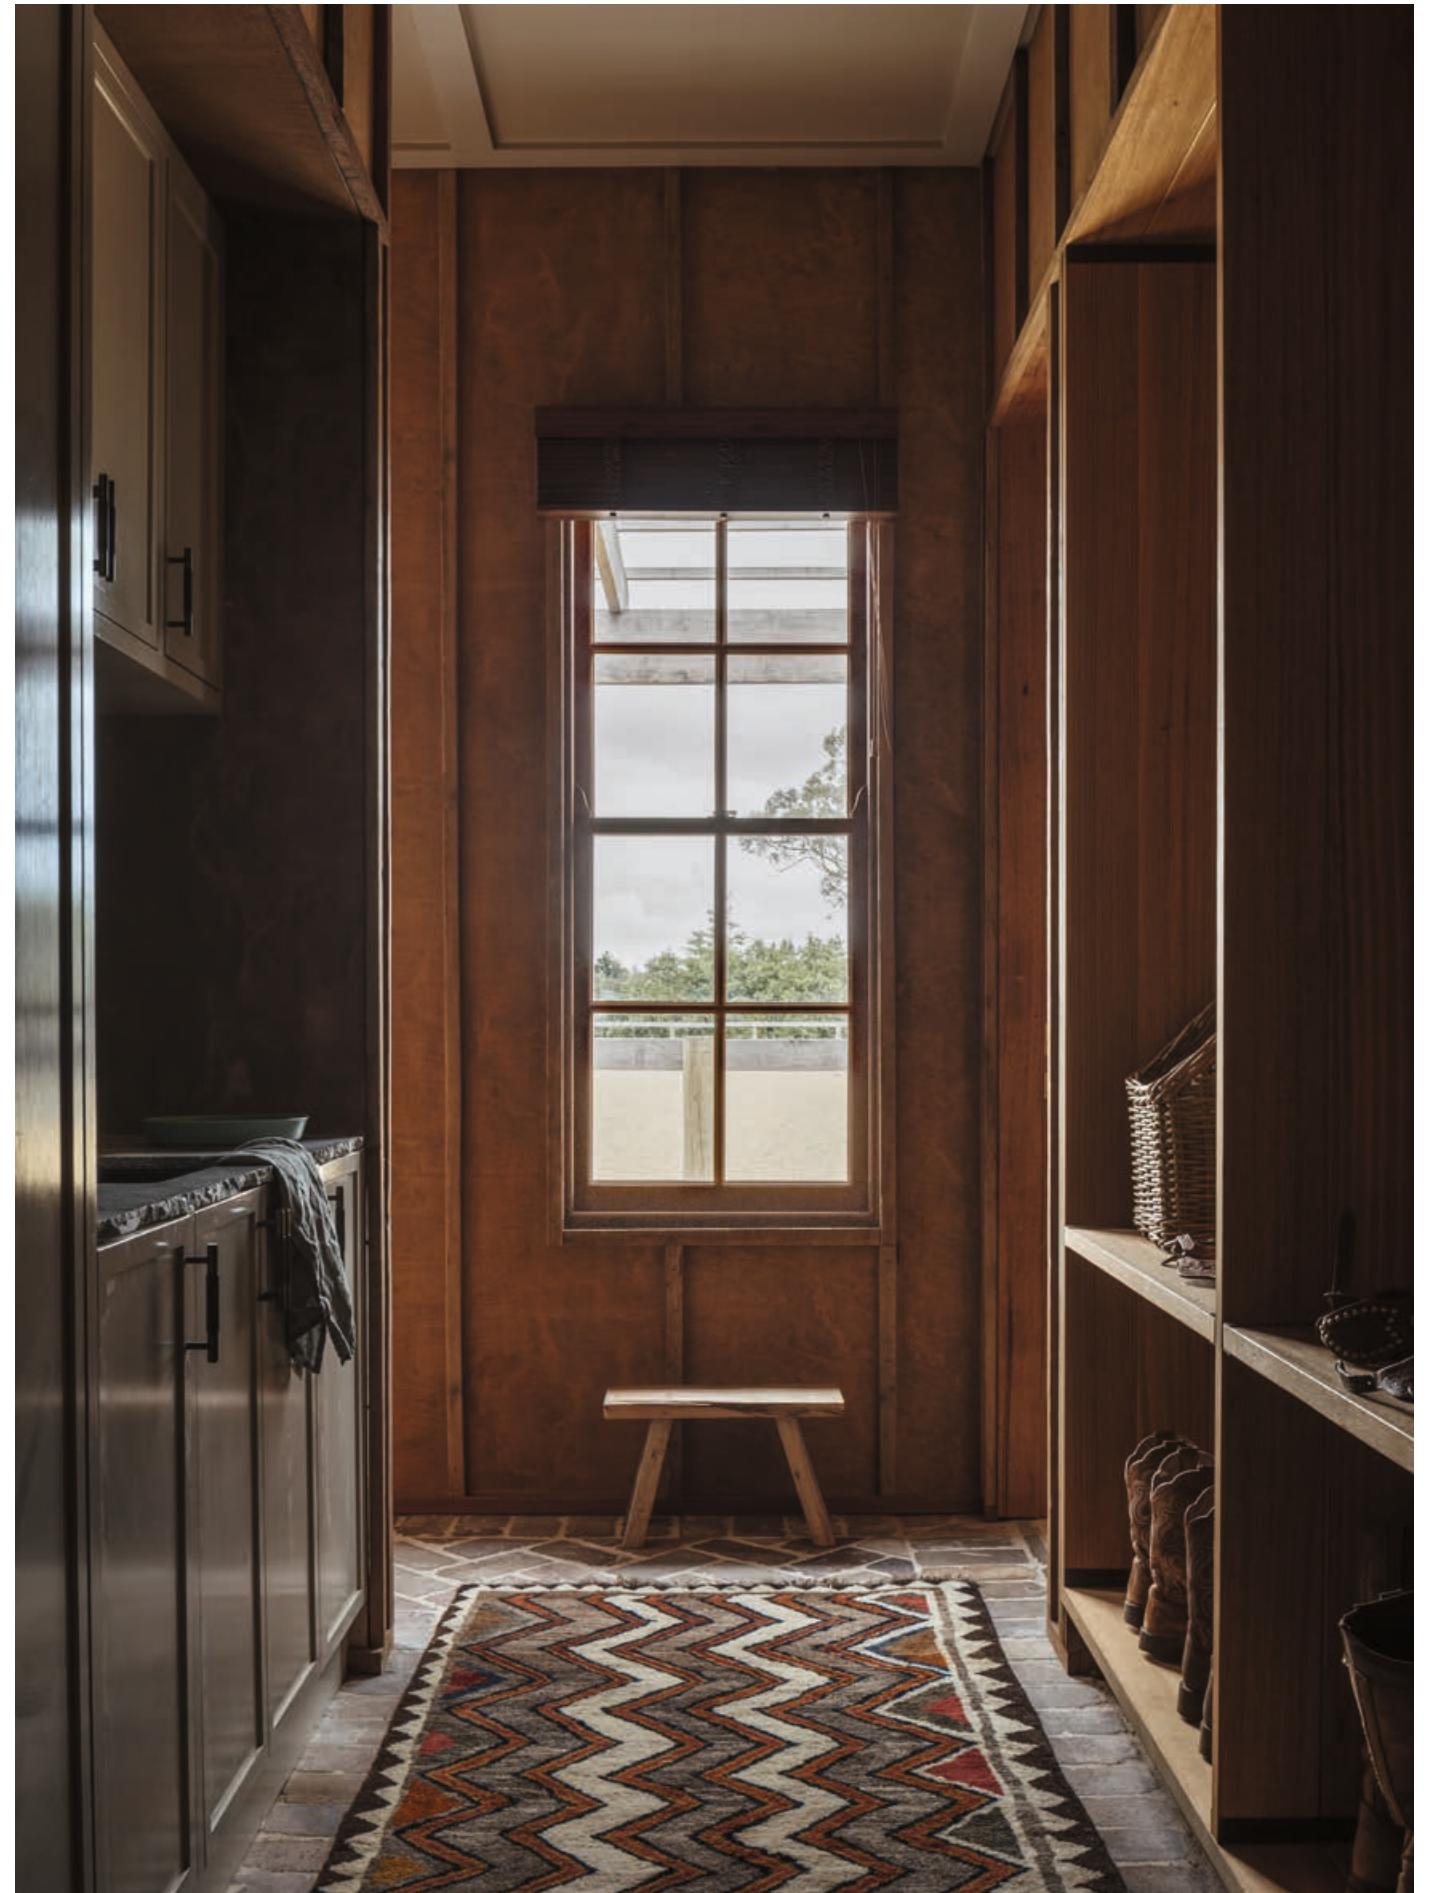

This project is a tribute to the client's passion for horses and the artistry of riding. Every detail, from raw timber and weathered iron to Aztec-inspired brickwork, honors Southwestern horsemanship. Designed for Western Pleasure riding, the stables accommodate larger saddles while ensuring ease of movement and elegance.

Beyond the stalls, the vision for the stables expands into harmonious living, where the connection between people, horses, and the landscape feels effortless. An outdoor pergola creates a natural space for quiet interaction with the horses, reinforcing the intimate bond between rider and steed. Inside, an inviting lounge provides a warm refuge for family and friends, fostering shared moments and lasting memories. The stables are more than a place to house horses—they are a sanctuary, a space where passion and purpose come together in perfect balance.

Through a deep understanding of equestrian life and an unwavering commitment to craftsmanship, Cadence & Co. has created a place that is both timeless and deeply personal. Georgetown Stables stands as a testament to thoughtful design—where beauty and function meet, where tradition is honored, and where life, in all its movement and stillness, finds its perfect rhythm.

Architecture, Builder & Interior Design: Cadence & Co. Landscape Design: Myles Baldwin Design. Landscaping: Reflective Gardens. Artworks: Lisa Guenther.

The design of this stable and lounge was inspired by the owner's deep love for horses and passion for Western Riding, rooted in the American Southwest, embracing freedom, simplicity, and a style shaped by the individual rider. These qualities guided the Cadence & Co's design—spaces that are casual, cozy, and deeply personal.

If home is where the heart is, then Georgetown Stables becomes a home away from home for its owner.

Georgetown Stables is a place to feel comfortable, to connect with the horses, to socialize, or to enjoy solitude.

Every element in Georgetown Stables reflects a commitment to quality and authenticity.

Thoughtfully designed interiors provide comfort, warmth, and a seamless connection to the natural surroundings.

Bespoke woodwork, natural light, and open spaces create a tranquil and sophisticated stable environment.

Inspired by a love for Western Pleasure Riding, Georgetown Stables is a retreat designed for harmony and grace.